Success Tips #11

More work resources

In the last newsletter, we gave you a few free or inexpensive resources to find work. If you stretch your budget a little further, here are a few ways to find paid VO and on-camera gigs.

Reel Directory - $35.

This industry resource contains listings of hundreds of advertising agencies, production companies, casting directors and recording studios that hire talent directly or through talent agencies. It is used by many actors to network and gain exposure through personal listings and advertisements. Advertising deadline is in February, and the book is released in July. www.reeldirectory.com

Casting Connection - $99.

A local online talent magazine, it lists dozens of acting jobs every week. The work section features an assortment of job, audition, and student film opportunities. www.castingconnection.com

Voice One Database - $10/month + $50 initial setup.

Local producers/directors know that Voice One is an excellent resource for trained voice-over and on-camera talent. Therefore, it's a great resource for our students. Producers receive a code that enables them to email talent directly for rates and availability. <http://db.voiceoneonline.com>
