Success Tips #10 Landing VO and acting jobs

Finding voice-over and on-camera work does not necessarily require an agent or a huge marketing budget. What it does require, is hustle. Here are some inexpensive or free resources for paid VO and on-camera work:

Craigslist.org posts listings virtually every day for on-camera and VO jobs. Pay rates vary per listing, from zero to hundreds of dollars. When perusing craigslist, check three main areas: Jobs - tv/film/video, Gigs - Talent, and Community - Artists.

Casting directors require talent for the hundreds of films, print jobs, commercials and industrials they cast each year. Registering for their databases usually requires a small fee for scanning the headshot and/or completing their forms. Here are a few casting directors and their current registration rates: Beau Bonneau Casting ($30), Nancy Hayes Casting ($25), Nina Henninger Casting ($15) and International Talent Casting ($15). Call or check their website for specific registration dates and times.
